Dear Mr. Chapman:

Thank you for your 24 December 2018 correspondence appealing the response from the National Security Agency (NSA or Agency) to your request under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA). You had requested "For all emails accounts in use, or operated by the National Security Agency (through proxy, or otherwise), ... the following information for all emails sent and received between March 5 2018 and March 9, 2018.

1. From address
2. To address
3. bcc addresses
4. cc addresses
5. Time
6. Date"

Our denial was based on the fact that we were not able to locate records responsive to your request.

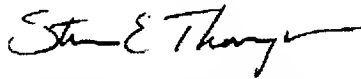

I have reviewed your initial request, the search that was performed in response to your request, the Agency's 26 October 2018 response to you, and your appeal. I have concluded that NSA conducted a reasonable search to locate the records you seek, but no responsive records were found. Your appeal is therefore denied.

You are hereby advised of your right pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(4)(B) to seek judicial review of this matter in the United States District Court in the district in which you reside, in which you have your principal place of business, in which the Agency records are situated (U.S. District Court of Maryland), or in the District of Columbia.

Additionally, you may contact the Office of Government Information Services (OGIS) at the National Archives and Records Administration to inquire about the FOIA mediation services they offer. The contact information for OGIS is as follows:
